Dear Niall,

How are you doing? I hope you are fine. Today I’m writing to you about my new school, because last time I was super busy.

My school is amazing! I am one of the first students to attend the new school. It is modern and quite huge but it is still under construction so there is a lot of noise. I got a headache! My new teachers are absolutely great... sweet, kind and they teach very well. They also know how to act with children our age. My favourite room is the food lab. It has the loveliest view and it is very modern. It has green and white cupboards. Absolutely cute!

It is quite amazing, I know though I really wish the library is ready, because I love reading but it will soon be done. These things take time right? What I don’t like about the new school is that there are cameras everywhere... even in the bathrooms, but it is not that bad. After all it is a new school. They are there because of vandalism.

Well it has been nice writing to you but I am really tired, so that’s it for today. I hope to hear from you Niall.

Love,
Amber
